THE ORPHAN GIRL!

I have no mother—for she died
When I was very young;
But her memory still around my heart,
Like morning mist has hung;

They tell me of an angel form
That watch'd me while I slept,
And of a soft and gentle hand
That wiped the tears I wept.

And that same hand held my own
When I began to walk,
And the joy that sparkled in her eyes
When first I tried to talk—

For they say the mother's heart is pleased
When infant charms expand—
I wonder if she thinks of me
In that bright, happy land?

For I know she is in heaven now—
That holy place of rest—
For she was always good to me,
And the good alone are blest.

I remember, too, when I was ill,
She kissed my burn'g brow;
And the tear that fell upon my cheek—
I think it feel it now.

And I still have some little books—
She taught me how to spell;
And the chiding or the kiss she gave,
I still remember well.

And then she used to kneel with me,
And teach me how to pray,
And raise my little hands to heaven,
And tell me what to say.

OMOTHER, mother! in my heart
Thy image still shall be,
And I will hope in heaven at last,
That I may meet with thee.

AUNT JERUSAH VISITS PITTSBURG.

When we arrived at Pittsburg, I put up the winder and stuck my head out to see the lay of the land.

"Old woman!" sez a fat faced man that had been drinking Plantation Bitters out of a bottle for the last hundred mile, "you had better take your head inside, or you'll git it knocked off."

"My head is my own," sez I, "and if it is knocked off it won't be your loss! and I'd advise you to finish that rum bottle and done with it!" and I kept my head out all the time.

There was a pretty good lot of curiosities all along the way, especially for a Yankee what has been used to granite rocks and green fields and skies so blue and clear that you can see clear to nowhere without specks.

A dreadful big cloud of smoke hung over the city, and pretty soon I seed fires in every direction.

"What an awful conflagration they be having!" sez I; and I run out into the platform and shouted fire to the top of my lungs, and flourished my umbril, and tried to persuade them railcar fellers to stop and let us all help to put out the fire, but they laffed at me, and said the fire was only the blast furnaces, and I told them that if I lived there I'd have 'em indicted for public newscases.

I'm well satisfied that if them Pittsburg folks don't look out for them fires, they'll set sumthin or another afire one of these days that they won't want to.

Beniah, he told me that I had better keep still and not talk so much, and I was just going to quote a little Scripture about honoring his pa and ma, when we arrived at the depot.

Everybody tumbled out, one over other, and I grabbed my satchel and other fixings, and tumbled out too; but somehow in the bustle and rush, I lost sight of Beniah and his wife, and got onto the wrong track, and the fust thing that I known I was out onto a street that was all tangled up with street cars and cabs, and coal carts, and dogs, and baby carriages, and hundreds of men and women as smutty as the inside of a stove kiver after you have been burning pitch wood for about a week.

And come to look the folks over, if I was to die, to tell the darky from the white men I couldn't.

I stepped up to a very decent looking negro man with a gold watch chain as big round as yer finger, and sez I:

"My res ectable, colored friend, can you give me any idea as to where I shall be likely to discover my son, Beniah, that jest came in on his bridal tower, on the Pennsylvania Union Depot train, that had on a pair of light pantaloons, with two shawls on his arm, and his wife a follerin' after, with a green gownd, and a black satchel bag, and—"

"Old lady," sez he, "I don't comprehend—"

"I've always heard it said by the Abolition lecturers," sez I, "that the negro is a particularly intelligent feller mortal, and that he's llers very civil answering questions, but I'll never believe it after this!"

"Negro?" sez he; "negro?" and I seed his cheeks grow red under his black skin. "Do you take me for a negro?"

Starting, sez I, "Don't you suppose I've got wit enuff to know a darkey when I see him!"

He riz his cane to strike me, and I riz my umbril to hit him, but just at that minit up rushed another black faced man, and grabbed me in his arms.

"An! mither, darlin'!" sez he, "when did yez arrive? And what is this dirty bogtroter of a man doing to yez? Say the word, mavourneen, and by the ghost of St. Patrick, I'll set his eyes in a pot for him!"

"Look here!" sez I, my Irish friend, "what do you mean by hugging me rite afore folks, and squeezin' the breath clear out of my body, to say nothing of rauting my collar and chignon all to pieces with your smutty hands!"

"Howly Virgin!" sez he. "I was mistook yez, to be shure. I thought yez was my mither, that's expected to come over from old Ireland this blessed week! But in this dirty counthry, a man can't be sure of his own grandmother, letting alone his mither and his fust cousins, till he's seen her face washed! It was the smut on the face of yez that desaved me!"

I shouldered my umbril, while he was excusing himself, and marched off to find Beniah.

Everything was wrapped in smoke. The houses were all black, so was the streets, so was the wagons, so was the people, so was the sky, and the sun warn't to be seen, at all. It had gone away to bore for ile; a little smutty-faced boy told me so when I inquired for it.

At last I was pretty sure that I seen Beniah, on a piece ahead of me. There was his light colored pantaloons, and if I war not greatly mistaked, it was his gait, and his buff-colored gloves. I took it for granted that he was looking for me, for his wife warn't with him. I set sail after him at the top of my speed, flourishing my satchel and umbril, and shouting "Beniah! Beniah! hold on a minit! Here I be!"

But he was dreadful hard of hearing and never stopped, so I had to put on mo' steam, and after a hard run, and all out of breath, I made out to overtake him.

It was so smoky between me and him that I could not see his face distinctly, but I was so glad to see him at all, that I threw my arms around his neck, and gave him a hearty smack, and sez I, "Oh, Beniah! have I found you at last! It was so smoky and everybody was so smutty that—" I didn't finish the sentence, for at that minit up rushed a woman with one baby in her arms, and one along side of her, and she fell to pounding me with her fists like a crazy woman.

"Git out of that, Jim McKenny!" sez she to the man; "I've had my suspicions of you quite a spell, and now I've caught you! And to think that your vile paramour is a woman old enough to be your mother! Oh, James! James! I wonder the heavens don't fall and scrunch you!"

While she was talking, I put on my specks and took a survey of the man she called Jim, and my soul and body! It warn't Beniah at all, but an intire stranger! Them pantaloons and the smut on his face deserved me!

"I'll be devored I'll hang myself! I'll jump into the river! I'll take pisin! I'll—I'll—" booh! booh! booh! booh! says she, and burst into such a sobbing that all the men and little boys gathered round and looked at me and Jim as if they thought we had been trying to murder her. Upon that, both the children began to cry, and I guess you never heard such a bellerbelo in all your born days. Dogs came running and barking from every direction, and some of the perlic arriv, and I mounted onto a baggage wagon and explained things for the benefit of the crowd.

I made a handsome doxology to the woman for kissing her husband, and we shook hands all round, and I give Jim and wife and each of the children a turnover apiece, and we parted in good friendship.

As I turned around a corner, I met Beniah himself, face to face; there was no mistake this time.

He scolded me for running off, and sed I was allus getting into scrapes, and then he took me to a hotel where I washed my face, and had some fried ham for breakfast. There was a tip-top hotel, rite in the depot, and I invited the landlord to take his folks and come to Pigeon Holler this summer and make me a visit. And he said he should be delighted to do so if it was a possible thing.

After breakfast we went out and took a walk. But we couldn't see nothing for the smoke. I spread my umbril, to keep the smoke off from my hat, and trudged on behind Beniah and his wife.

We went to see the grain elevator and the rolling mills, and several other curiosities that I disremember, though all of 'em was smoky; and we road up onto a big hill on a little tiny coal cart, that went up while another was coming down; and I hung onto Beniah's arm and screched murder all the way, for I expected nothing but the pesky rope should break and we should go to Halifax together!

Pittsburg is a big place! Everybody there is alive except them that is underground, and it is as wide awake as it is smoky, which is saying a good deal for it. They say that a mother when she lets one of her children go out to play in the street allers ties a label round his neck with his name onto it, so that she can tell him from the other children, for they all get so dirty in half an hour that they look jest alike, and it's a day's work to get one's face clean enough to see the features.

This afternoon we start for Barberryville.

I can't write any more for Beniah has just come in, and says the train will leave in two hours, and I'd better go about washing my face and hands.

So no more at present.

JERUSHY R. PERKINS.

ADVANTAGES OF POLITENESS.—"Thank you, my dear," said Lundy Foote to the little beggar-girl who bought a penny-worth of snuff. "Thank you, my dear, please call again," made Lundy Foote a millionaire. Some years ago, a dry goods salesman in a London shop had acquired such a reputation for courtesy and exhaustless patience that it was said to be impossible to provoke from him any expression of irritability, or the smallest symptom of vexation. A lady of rank, hearing of his wonderful equanimity, determined to put it to the test by all the annoyances with which a veteran shop-visitor knows how to tease a shopman. She failed in the attempt and thereupon set him up in business. He rose to eminence in the

GRANT AND THE MCGARRAHAAN CLAIM.
The Philadelphia Age of June 24th has this:

General Grant is bound to let the honest people of this country know upon what new evidence he has ordered the McGarrahaan claim to be reopened. The Supreme Court and Congress have repeatedly decided against this claim, and every Attorney-General, since the administration of Pierce, has asserted that it is a fraud, and could never succeed except through corrupt means. When Secretary Cox and Commissioner Wilson sought to carry out these decisions, they were as failed by the McGarrahaan party, who had no hope until these faithful officers were removed. A Committee of Congress investigated the case last Winter, and a majority reported that they doubted if there was any such Mexican grant as that upon which McGarrahaan founded his original application; they said that the claim was evidently fraudulent, and commanded Secretary Cox for having indorsed upon the so-called mutilated record: "This patent has never been signed or executed, and is of no validity, and the record is canceled." But without a particle of new proof, so far as the public are informed, General Grant reopens the whole case, and invites the plunderers to renew their raid upon the interest of honest men. General Grant has been engaged in many suspicious jobs during his Administration, but none surrounded with more evidences of a questionable character than this action in relation to the fostered McGarrahaan claim.

DAMAGING DEVELOPMENTS.—The Ku Klux bill is likely to result in some good after all. A Washington dispatch says: Official developments will shortly be made that will put the President in a sad plight for interfering with the judicial machinery of a Federal court and preventing its officers by removal from even enforcing the Radical military or enforcement law. It has already been stated that the Republican United States District Judge of Arkansas called the attention of the Grand Jury a few weeks since to the features of this law which punished corruption and intimidation in elections for Federal offices. The result was that some thirty indictments were soon found for violations of the statute, and among them was one against Senator Cleiton. The United States Marshal and District Attorney were about to enter upon the prosecution of these indictments when their sudden removal was announced from Washington. Their successors have never taken up the cases, and the prosecution of the Arkansas Radical ballot stuffers has thus probably been abandoned through Executive influence. Both of these officials have been summoned to appear before the Ku-Klux Committee and give a complete history of this most remarkable transaction on the part of the President. Although Republicans they had not the fear of the notorious Clayton before their eyes, and seemed determined to punish him under the law had not Grant and Clayton prevented that.—

[COMMUNICATED.]

BIG DRY CREEK, July 7th, 1871.

EDITOR EXPOSITOR:—Dear Sir—Progress, like his illustrious prototype "Justice Shallow," seems determined to be written down an ass, but he has accom- plished that so well himself in three of your issues, that he must really excuse me occupying your valuable space in proving the self-evident fact—his affinity to the long eared race, but I have one favor to ask the gentleman. It is, that we will reconsider his determination to support the Democratic nomination for Governor, for if he is no more successful in his electioneering than he has been in his advocacy of his subsidy friends, all I can say is, alas! poor Haight! But now positively adieu! My reason for first noticing Progress production he may find by turning to the fifth verse of the twenty-sixth Chapter of Proverbs; my declining answering any more of his letters if he will read the preceding verse. I am sure it must be satisfactory, at least, it is so to INA.

COTTON BLOOMS.—We were handed a letter on Monday last, written by J. M. Strong, in which he stated that plenty of cotton blooms were to be seen in his field, and that the crop was growing with a degree of rapidity unprecedented. Mr. Strong is in good spirits and sanguine of the success of his enterprise. He looks upon the successful cultivation of his crop this year as the beginning of an enterprise that will prove of vast interest to the people of California, creating profitable employment for hundreds of thousands of people who otherwise could not be induced to come here from the Atlantic States and foreign countries to make their homes on the Pacific slope. If successful, the State could well afford to give to Mr. Strong and his associates a large premium upon their products for several years to come, by way of remuneration for their enterprising venture.—Snelling Argus.

REVELS is said to be meditating a bill to strike out the word "White," as an "invidious distinction," from the name "White House."

"DO YOU KNOW WHERE YOU LIVE?" is the great question outside the county seat. "Who do you patronize in the tax business?" is another. A friend up in "New Fresno" has a dog and some sheep and hogs, and was intending to sell the latter to pay his taxes in this county. He will now have to sell the sheep and get along as best he can with the dog. We feel considerable safe as yet, right around the county seat. We have been eaten up with stray cattle and grasshoppers, and now comes the assessors from other counties to pick our bones. Our fence law would be good for something if it would keep out the vermin. We call on our able assessor for relief. Invoke your deputies and make an immediate raid into Fresno and Kern. Assess each gopher and grasshopper a dollar a head, levy on the real estate to pay it, and "go them some better."—Visalia Delta.

THE FOLLOWING, which explains itself, and which has been kindly furnished us by Capt. I. A. Stevens, may be of interest to many of our readers, hence we give it publicity:

MILLERTON, June 26th, 1871.

S. T. NYE, ESQ., LAND REGISTER, U. S. LAND OFFICE, STOCKTON—Dear Sir: The prompt and gentlemanly manner in which you have heretofore answered my communications, induces me to trouble you again. You will please let me know whether there has been any change in the Act of Congress which requires pre-emption to pay by the 14th of July 1871, and if so, what?

Yours Truly ISAAC A. STEVENS.

STOCKTON, June 30th, 1871.

Isaac A. Stevens Esq., Dear Sir: Your favor of the 26th inst. came to hand, and in reply would say that the time has been extended until July 14th, 1872, one year.

Yours Truly, S. T. NYE.

NOT ANY FOR US.—We have received an offer at advanced rates to insert another lottery swindle among our advertisements. We are pleased to see that most all responsible journals have concluded to observe the law. There is a moral law against another class of advertising, against which the editorial fraternity should unite. Once driven from the field, other medical advertisements of a legitimate nature would take their place, and publishers of the public would eventually be gainers thereby.—Visalia Delta.

We would like to know which is the worst to publish the Lottery advertisements for pay, or to render a bill for advertising one, when the work had never been done.

OUR LAUREL WOOD.—The San Jose Mercury says that there is reason to believe that our beautiful laurel wood will soon disappear from this country. Its superiority for fine cabinet work is rapidly coming to be appreciated throughout the world. That paper is informed that English dealers are quietly buying up large quantities of this wood for shipment. If such is the fact, some effort should be made to prevent the skinning of the country of this valuable timber. At least, in our forest tree planting, care should be taken that the laurel tree is not forgotten; so that its waste may be made good by cultivation. A laurel wood forest, forty or fifty years hence, would be a princely fortune to the owner.

100 Gold Coin Premiums $350,000

The premium will be awarded in the same manner as at the Fair given in San Francisco by the Mercantile Library.

The drawing will take place under the management of a committee of well known and responsible citizens of Calaveras County.

Trustees of Calaveras Co., San Francisco; B. E. Hastings & Co., San Francisco; San Joaquin Valley Bank, Stockton, with whom all money will be deposited, and by whom all disbursements will be made.

That squat reminds us of the corn in Arkansas, where a man stuck a stick down by a good looking stalk, just to see how much it would make. When pulling corn time came, he gathered seven ears from the stalk and four from the stick, besides small gourd of shelled corn on top. This same planter couldn't sell his land to a Virginian who went to look at it and who happened to look at the part where the potatoes and beans were planted, because as he said the place was full of Indian mounds and cedar stumps.—Demopolis Advertiser.

They both tell good stories, but in this county, on King's river, last year, a Muskmelon was raised which weighed fifty-six pounds. We would like to match this muskmelon against that squash.

The San Francisco Bulletin, in noticing the nominations of the Radical State Convention says: "The nominations of Green for Controller, of Love for Attorney General, of Malone for Secretary of State, of McGlynn for Harbor Commissioner, fail to commend themselves, either for lack of fitness or special capacity."

TOWN AND COUNTY.

FIRE.—We are informed that a fire is raging in the grass and timber near the head of Big Dry Creek, and is causing considerable damage.

JONES FERRY.—Preparation is being made at this crossing of the San Joaquin to construct two new boats, and make the crossing entirely a bridge of boats to accommodate travel.

MILLERTON FERRY COMPANY.—On account of the falling of the San Joaquin river, this company have commenced raising the road preparatory to bridging the river. The low stage of the water rendering ferrage difficult.

GOPHER SCALPS.—Mr. John Dunlap, presented to Justice W. T. Rumble, and claimed bounty upon 101 scalps of gophers, caught with the patent gopher trap. This is the first scalp presentation of this industrious destructive pest to the farmer made in the county.

STOCK DRIVING.—Large bands of cattle and horses are continually being gathered up on the ranges and driven from the county. Thousands of head of stock now passing from the range will never be brought back. The scarcity of feed and the threatened passage of the Trespass Law by the next Legislature, is driving all the available wealth of stock from the county.

NEARLY COMPLETED.—The large and spacious building now under erection by Mr. Lucy Dennis, at the Fresno Station, on the Horner and Millerton stage road, will soon be completed and furnishing the surrounding settlements with groceries, etc., and the passing traveler will always find a good resting place with our pleasing, genial friend.

HORSE DISEASE.—This scouring disease seems to be spreading with renewed violence throughout the mountain country to the north of the San Joaquin. We hear of valuable horses sickening and dying daily. Where are the veterinary surgeons? Here are fine opportunities to test your knowledge of the organization of this noble servant to man, and a field for experiment to relieve its suffering.

A BANK account is good to have, but it is often drawn upon it runs out. Bodily health is the first of blessings, but because a good constitution bears abuse wonderfully, do not assume that recklessness will never come. Live sensibly and moderately; and at the first symptoms of dyspepsia, disorders of the skin, kidneys, liver, or blood, use promptly Dr. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters, the unrivaled purifier of the blood and renovator of the system, which is a certain cure.

SECOND CROP.—We learn that the farmers on King's river, have gathered their wheat and barley crops, and are putting in corn on the same land as fast as they can get the land in readiness. As water for irrigation can be had in abundance, this second crop will thrive excellently, and our warm climate will cause it to mature in one season. This plan of farming has been successfully tested in this country. Those who will may profit against irrigation, but to our mind the evidence is conclusive that land can be made to yield a greater return by it, than otherwise.

BODY OF A MURDERED MAN FOUND.—A few days since some parties whose names we have been unable to learn, found the dead body of a Chinaman above Benson's store, on Seymour creek. It was found covered up under a lot of stones, but was so badly decomposed as to render recognition impossible. It is supposed to be that of a sheep-herder who was seen in that vicinity some weeks since. Suspicion rests upon two Indians as the culprits, as the Chinaman was last seen with them and they were noticed to have more money subsequently than is customary for Indians to have. Messrs. Joe and Maria Medley, and some other citizens of that locality, went in search of the Indians, but being unable to find them they took the chiefs of the two Indian camps in that vicinity, and informed them that they would be held as hostages for the missing ones, it being hoped that their arrest may be brought about in this manner.

BITTEN BY A RATTLESNAKE.—On Sunday, June 2d, the eldest son of Samuel Frakes, who lives on Willow Creek, was sent out to fetch up the cows in the afternoon, finding some of them he drove them toward the house, and on the way accidentally dropped his ridingwhip in a bunch of weeds. Dismounting from his horse he picked it up and the next instant was struck on the hand by a rattlesnake. With a presence of mind not often found in persons of mature age, he mounted his horse and commenced sucking the wound and spitting over the poison; at the same time driving up the cows a distance of half a mile. Upon reaching home his father saw that he had been crying and that his arm was swollen. On an examination it was found that he had almost taken the skin from around the wound by sucking the spot. Whisky was freely used. On Monday the swelling had almost subsided. The snake was a small one having but three rattles.

OUR STOCKTON ADVERTISEMENTS.—We call the attention of our readers to the advertisements of several different business houses at Stockton. They may rest assured that in dealing with these merchants, they are dealing with enterprising men. It is a sure sign to go by, if you want to deal with honest men, and get liberal bargains deal with those who advertise. Among our Stockton advertisements will be found the names of Shippee & McKee, grocers; S. Starbuck & Co., and Evans & O'Brien, wholesale liquor dealers; Kolman & Sons, clothing merchants; H. W. Schmidt, watchmaker and jeweler; J. P. Spooner, photographer, San Joaquin Engine Co., No. 3's Gift Concert, and last, but not by any means the least, W. M. Hickman, druggist. The rapid progress in the building of the Stockton and Visalia railroad, which places the first named place in closer communication with Fresno county than ever before, and the further fact that the teamsters do not charge any more for freight from Stockton than they do from Modesto, makes the former the preferable point for purchasers to do their trading and shipping.

NEW VOLUME.—The San Francisco Examiner, the acknowledged organ of the Democracy, on the Pacific Coast, has entered on a new volume. The Examiner is justly deserving of the high encomiums showered upon it by the members of the press. Long may it continue as it is, and has been, a stinging thorn in the side of Radicalism and corruption.

THE Union Democrat has entered on a new volume.

We have seen some of the finest photographs ever produced outside of San Francisco at J. P. SPOONER'S, FIRST PREMIUM PHOTOGRAPHIC PARLOR, Kidd's Block, Stockton.

FOR COUNTY SURVEYOR.

The undersigned respectfully announces him self a candidate for County Surveyor of Fresno county, at the ensuing election to be held in September next, having been a permanent citizen of this county, since its organization, and is believed to be a reasonable apology for not traveling over the country renewing old acquaintance and establishing new, and having no inclination and but little tact for electioneering. I will not be found guilty of any errors, but do claim that whatever tact I have been born with, I feel a desire to fill the office for another term, as I feel that I can do more satisfactorily to my self and to the public some knowledge of the statute laws and practices of the law in this State. Feeling thankful, fellow-citizens, for the host of my abilities to discharge the functions of the office conscientiously under oath of office.

GILLIAM BAILEY.

MILLERTON, Fresno Co., April 12th, 1871.

FELLOW CITIZENS:—I take this method of announcing through the Fresno Expositor, our county newspaper, that I propose to run for re-election to the office that I have the honor to fill.

My official acts as County Judge for the past three years have been the subject of the community (whether good or bad). I do not claim that I have done any thing but what is right.

I do claim that whatever tact I have been born with, I feel a desire to fill the office for another term, as I feel that I can do more satisfactorily to my self and to the public some knowledge of the statute laws and practices of the law in this State.

I do not claim that I have done any thing but what is right.

I do not claim that I have done any thing but what is right.

I do not claim that I have done any thing but what is right.

I do not claim that I have done any thing but what is right.

I do not claim that I have done any thing but what is right.

Oh for a ledge in a garden of cucumbers!
Ch for an iceberg two at control!
Oh for a vale which at mid-day the dew cumbers!
Oh for a pleasure trip up to the Pole!

Oh for a little one-story thermometer,
With nothing but zeros all ranged in a row!
Oh for a big double-barreled hydrometer,
To measure this moisture that rolls from my brow!

Oh that this cold world were twenty times colder!
(That's irony red-hot it seemeth to be!)
Oh for a turn of its dreaded cold spell!
Oh what a comfort an ague would be!

Oh for a spot to typify heaven,
Seated in the rock under a cataract vast!
Oh for a winter of discontent even!
Oh for a wet blanket judiciously cast!

Oh for a soda-fountain sparkling up boldly
From every hot source against the hot sky!
Oh for a proud maiden to look on me coldly,
Freeing my soul with a glance of her eye!

Then oh for a draught from a cay of cold pizen!
And oh for a resting place in the cold grave!
With a bath in the Styx, where thick shadows lie on!
And deepens the chill of its dark running wave!

MISCELLANY.

"Say what you will, 'twas a lucky day
When Patty sent her old beau away;
For such a sight made the people stare—
And well they might at so odd a pair.
None called it a match, except in sport,
For he was as tall as she was short;
And, what would be thought much worse than that.
He was as slender as she was fat;
And she, if the truth were told,
You'd find was as young as he was old."

"Tis strange," muttered a young man as he staggered home from a supper party, "how evil communications corrupt good manners. I've been surrounded by tumblers all the evening, and now I'm a tumbler myself."

Why was it, as an old woman in a scarlet cloak was crossing a field where a goat was browsing, that a most wonderful metamorphosis took place? Because the goat turned to butt'er, and the antique party to a scarlet runner!

Miss Kate Stanton says: "John Stuart Mill, Harriet Martineau, John Bright, and other English statesmen, assert that women understand political economy better than men, because they have been drilled in the habit of husbanding small resources. Some are obliged to husband very small resources, in the shape of the men they have to take care of."

There is an undertaker in New York whose sign bears the inscription: "Every requisite for a funeral." John McBride Davidson, passing along with Billy Birch went in and said he would take a corpse. "A corpse! I haven't any." "Then take your sign down" said he; "I don't know anything more requisite for a funeral than a corpse. Good morning."

Recently, in one of the Virginia courts, the grand jury, as is now usually the case, was composed partly of negroes. After being charged in the usual way by his honor, the jury retired to their room, when one of the white jurors ventured to ask a colored associate if he understood the charge of the judge. "Golly," exclaimed the astonished amendment, "he don't charge us nuffin' for dat, does he?" Why, I thought we was gwine to git pay."

IRRIGATION—IS IT PRACTICABLE?

EDITORS BULLETIN:—The Sacramento Union of the 9th inst. in an article discussing a system of costly irrigation in season of drought, "urges rather the cultivation of our tule lands," and charges that irrigation is likely to "introduce new and dangerous fevers, etc., without, however, adding such as the result in any of the present irrigated countries of the world. Look at China with its enormous system of irrigation, even in terracing her hillsides. Lombardy with her 4,500 miles of canals, an "experiment" of 700 years. France, Belgium, Algiers, India, whose canals are mighty rivers, where the Jamna the Sutlej and Ganges, irrigate over 4,000,000 acres, studding an otherwise barren land with thousands of thriving villages. Not there do we find "new and dangerous diseases," rather here amidst "our tule lands," where fever and ague and mosquitoes prevail.

The Union asks, "can any plan be devised for watering the wheat fields of the San Joaquin, the Stanislaus, Merced, and Fresno counties?" Is the Union ignorant that not only have plans been devised but that Fresno county has a plan in successful operation for irrigating her fertile plains from King's river to the upper San Joaquin, and that the crops in the vicinity of the canal have been saved this year? The Fresno Canal Company of King's river are now delivering about 1,000,000 cubic feet per hour, and have facilities for irrigating about 300,000 acres. On irrigated lands the saving in seed not only pays for the water, but leaves enough to pay for feed to put in crops, instead of 100 pounds per acre 30 pounds of wheat is found to be ample, so large do the plants stool out, and over double the crops is ensured beyond peradventure. Neither north winds, heat or rust, jeopardize the crops of Fresno, they are absolutely certain. Besides this a crop of corn can be raised after the wheat is harvested.
